

Tula Leader Begins Influential Role with IRC Global Executive Search Partners

ATLANTA (April 25, 2016) — Bernard Vanderlande, managing partner of talent acquisition specialist Tula Executive Search, has stepped into an influential position with IRC Global Executive Search Partners that will strengthen his ability to connect with the world's top talent in the Energy field.

Vanderlande was appointed Global Co-Practice Leader for the IRC's Energy, Natural Resources & Infrastructure Practice Group. In this role, he will work with the IRC's team of industry leaders to share resources and connections necessary to place CEOs, General Managers and other top executives at the world's leading companies.

"This is the perfect opportunity to connect with vibrant leaders in one of the most critical fields of our time," said Vanderlande. "It's a strategic position at the intersection of supply and demand for leaders in the ever-changing industries of Energy and Natural Resources."

Vanderlande and other professionals in the IRC Practice Group work with the world's leading companies to help identify their leaders' potential, drive development, accelerate readiness, and energize transitions. IRC team members work with clients across the globe to build a solid talent strategy and to identify leaders who can enable top companies to capitalize on evolving opportunities and move into new high-growth areas.

As a network of independently owned and managed executive search firms, IRC has global resources of 80 offices across 6 continents that they use to carry out retained executive search and talent mapping assignments with the utmost confidentiality, accuracy and urgency.
